

LGST CAREERS FAIR

2026

Welcome

... to the LGST Careers Fair

Without the support of the firms, institutes and organisations here this evening, we would not have been able to provide such a wide variety of opportunities to widen the horizons of our students. Leicester Grammar School Trust is committed to partnership working in this field. We are particularly grateful to the exhibitors for their time and commitment in helping the students attending this evening develop both their career thinking and planning. It is hoped that students will keep this document and use it in the future for help with their career development.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank our Old Leicestrians for their commitment to the school and for their help at this event, many have returned to join us this evening.

It is also a pleasure to welcome students and parents from both Leicester Grammar School and LGS Stoneygate to this Fair.

After completing my A Levels (OL'21) and earning my BSc in Cancer Biology and Immunology at the University of Bristol, I went straight into my PhD, studying the metabolism of rare SDH-deficient neuroendocrine tumours (pheochromocytoma and paragangliomas). My research uses techniques like mass spectrometry and tracer studies to discover metabolic blood biomarkers for early tumour detection and to identify new therapeutic targets. Beyond laboratory work, my PhD provides fantastic opportunities to travel and meet diverse people. I collaborate with interdisciplinary teams, visit expert labs to acquire specialised skills, present research at international conferences, and meet directly with clinicians about patient samples, and foundations to ensure our science translates to real-world impact.

CREATIVE & DESIGN CAREERS:

Siân Brewin — Interior Designer & Creative

Siân is a multidisciplinary creative with a strong passion for interior design. She graduated from Loughborough University with a First-Class degree in Textile Innovation & Design, developing a broad creative skill set across textiles, product design, interiors and styling.

During her studies, Siân gained over three years' experience with a luxury interior design studio in Rutland, progressing to Junior Interior Designer & Buyer. She worked across residential projects from smaller renovations to full turnkey schemes, alongside buying, sourcing, styling and project delivery, and travelled internationally to trade shows and supplier events.

Siân now works as a freelance interior designer and fashion stylist while pursuing a career across interior design, buying and editorial work. Her approach is rooted in colour, craftsmanship and materials, creating layered, characterful spaces that feel collected rather than decorated. She enjoys combining antiques and contemporary pieces to create personal, timeless interiors, working collaboratively with clients and specialist makers to bring ideas to life.
